Re: Let's see if I'm still batting 1000. Batter Up!

April 27, 2020

Dear Ms. Bartholet;

Over the last decade when asked how many children they brought into the world, every anti-natalist female professor I contacted said "zero", or they fell silent. This, while they pretended to be the champion advocates for other people's children! (Not uncommon since Jane Addams and her lesbian friends at the Hull House in Chicago pioneered the first juvenile courts because of their barren "passion" to care for the children of others.) This barrenness is not uncommon today even among the 'caring' prime ministers and presidents of most European countries.

I'm now convinced the real 'hags' of this feminist bunch get more aggressive in projecting their hatred of children onto society as they age. The reality of their loveless, childless, barren lives has left them irretrievably, with nobody born of their own loins behind to remember their love...their legacy. This vacuous future oft becomes a 'banging drum' in the heart and minds of such hags at night as they lay down to sleep in empty homes. Better, it becomes a thunder which they must drown out as they sense eternity is real.

So they 'project' their oppressive misandry and hatred of children on to society by pretending to care about them, in a vain attempt to suppress their despair. But slowly across the country Christian men are awaking to such oppression and tyranny (particularly from the 'family courts') by going home from their drudgery of 'making bricks' to end their evenings by making love to their 'awakening' Christian wives and as a result, are bearing more children. See Exodus 1:7. Many of these children will be home-schooled or be trained in real Christian schools. And now 50 million kids are at home joining their otherwise working mothers (also now at home) and familial love is being re-kindled and many mothers are beginning to educate their children again.

The 'Choo-choo Train' of homeschooling is developing a massive head of steam and you, in your aging downward spiral, attempt to throw yourself on the tracks to stop it. Hah! You better get off the tracks as you can't stop it now. Your Prussian/Unitarian statist education system is in complete disarray and financial doom. I'm hearing recently from an admissions staff member of an east coast state university that Freshman enrollment may be off by 40 to 50% this Fall. Who knows, Harvard (its massive endowment aside) may see their law school numbers collapsing. As Jonathan Harvard knew: the living Triune God and his Law still reigns, as much as you vainly try to suppress Him!

I loved your quote here: “I think it’s always dangerous to put powerful people in charge of the powerless, and to give the powerful ones total authority.” Agreed! I am going to use this in my future speaking engagements. As Joseph told his brothers, “What you meant for evil against me, God meant for good...” (Genesis 50:20). What you meant against homeschoolers will be used as the perfect indictment against government education.

Government educators have been the ‘powerful people’ with all the propaganda support, with all the judicial support, with the billions and billions of taxpayer money, with all the legislative power, and with all their idiot-union members. And together they have been incredibly dangerous to the souls and intellect of past generations. But not much longer! It is time to repeal compulsory education laws, repeal property taxpayer and state aid funding laws, let any bond debt be defaulted on and all employment contracts torn up (coronavirus after all...lol) and the very public school corporations should be dissolved and barred by statute from ever re-incorporating!

To close, now you are in the batter’s box and I’m ready to pitch: How many children have you born into the world, Elizabeth?
